

Australian Government

Department of Sustainability, Environment, Water, Population and Communities

ENVIRONMENT LIAISON OFFICER

NATIONAL FARMERS' FEDERATION

The environment liaison officer, Jol Taber, is available to help farmers, agricultural organisations and other natural resource managers with issues relating to national environment law.

Based at the National Farmer's Federation in Canberra, Jol regularly travels around Australia and provides support to the agricultural sector wherever it is needed.

Jol is available to answer your questions either by phone or email, or to give presentations at conferences or local meetings on national environment law and how it relates to farming.

environment.gov.au/farming
nff.org.au/policy/nrm

He can help with your questions about:

- national environment law—Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999 (EPBC Act)
- whether nationally protected matters exist on your property
- whether farming activities require federal government approval, separate to state or local approvals, and
- grants and financial incentives to manage nationally protected environmental matters.

You can contact Jol on 1800 704 520 (free call, including mobiles)
or environment@nff.org.au